“The beginnings of all things are small.”

*The Algonquin
Algonac High School
Algonac, Michigan*

For 18 years the Algonquin has been guided by the firm hand of Miss Nugent. During this time she has helped to publish 18 year-books, met 72 deadlines, proofread 1,296 pages, and previewed 10,000 pictures—and all this in her spare time. Advising the year-book has been only one of Miss Nugent's many activities which have made our high school a better place to learn.

With sincere appreciation, deepest gratitude, and on the behalf of Miss Nugent's many students, we dedicate to her the 1967 Algonquin.

Some Artistic Seniors???

Two sets of sisters received the honor of becoming Homecoming representatives for their classes. Sue McDonald was elected Frosh representative and sister Steff was one of the Juniors. Jo Decker was the second Junior representative and her sister Marie, was the Sophomore representative. Sue Grey and Diana Sampier were the two Senior representatives of Queen Nancy Halverson's court.

Spirit Week was the week of Homecoming '66. Excitement ran high as the competition posters went up all over the school. The Spirit assembly set the four classes against each other and laughter was the product. A cheering contest between classes failed to wake Pedro at the final assembly, but the school as a whole succeeded.

Student Council

Busy counting ballots on the revision of the constitution.

Helping support the foreign exchange fund.

The Student Council is the organization which represents the student body to the administration. It carries out activities and plans, such as Homecoming or discussion of the dress code, which effect the entire student body.

At the end of November, the student body voted on a revision of the Constitution; the revision was passed.

On March 15, the Student Council sponsored the annual Senior-Faculty game. For the first time in five years, the seniors won by a score of 40 to 29.

INTRODUCING KERSTIN BEIJE

Kerstin was our second foreign exchange student under the Youth For Understanding Program. She came from Stockholm, Sweden, where she attended school to her Junior year before she joined us.

Kerstin liked Algonac High School because her friends all attend the same school. She felt it was easy to get along with the teachers, and she liked the whole American system of schooling. Most of all, Kerstin liked all the extra curricular activities; especially the emphasis on sports, which she attended regularly.

The scholarship includes one year living in the U.S. with an American family, and attending school as a senior. Kerstin stayed with Jann Waganhals the past year and said, "I just loved it. It's been a wonderful experience that I'll never forget."

Honor Society

National Honor Society is made up of Junior and Senior students who show high qualities in scholarship, character, leadership, and service. This year Honor Society attended two plays, one at the Festival Theatre in Stratford, Ontario, and the other at Hilbery Theatre in Detroit. This year, as in the past, Honor Society provided $100 scholarships to two deserving seniors.

In March, four senior girls were inducted into Honor Society. They were: Fran Frank, Nancy Halverson, Sue Christy, and Karen Froh.

Honor Society meets to vote on new members.

Paula Goltz lights her candle during Induction Ceremony.

Steering Committee

The Steering Committee sets up time schedules of club and class activities so that they will not interfere with one another. Mr. Johnson heads the group made up of class advisors and one representative from each club.

Library Club

The Library Club is an informative organization. Under the leadership of Mrs. King, it is composed of library assistants who are trained to help students find books and other materials. The group affiliates itself with other Thumb Area Library Clubs and holds annual meetings. This year the meeting was held at Marlette.

"The Thread That Runs So True"

Director and assistant director relax for a minute.

Backstage in the girls' dressing room, make-up is applied for the dress rehearsal.

The cast awaits the arrival of Miss Kingsbury and the beginning of practice.

This year the seniors presented the play, "The Thread That Runs So True," under the able direction of Miss Lois Kingsbury. It was presented on Friday and Saturday night, March 10 and 11, in the Junior High Gym. The success of the play was shown by the many compliments received.

Mixed emotions fill the stage as tryouts begin.

Miss Kingsbury assists in preparing the costumes.

Debate Club

This year the high school gained a worthwhile club thanks to the cooperation of our new Communications teacher, Miss Kingsbury. The club's first year was naturally a rough one; but with Miss Kingsbury's patience and guidance, they were fairly successful. The proposition for this year was: "Resolved: That the foreign aid program of the U.S. should be limited to non-military assistance."

Three Debate Club members received awards at the annual Awards Assembly. Joe Jones, Camille Andino, and Lorraine Pearl received Certificates of Merit from the Detroit Free Press for participating in one or more debates and being able workers.

Camille looks for moral support in the midst of a debate.

Miss Kingsbury and the judge ponder the results.

Ski Club

A few of the many members of Ski Club prepare for a weekly trip to the slopes.

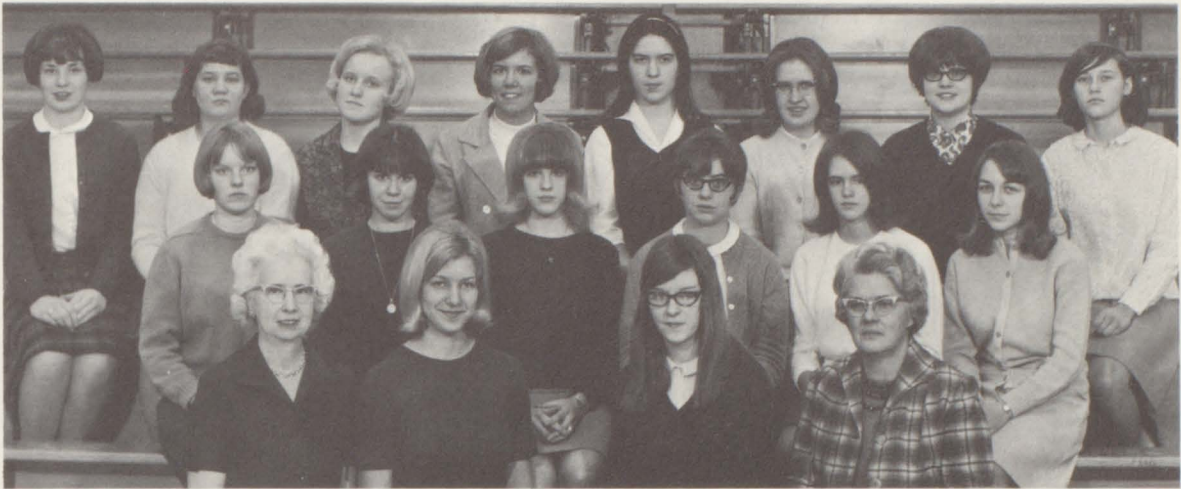

G. A. A.

Girls learn to enjoy competitive sports and express leadership abilities through G.A.A. activities. The year consists of various activities such as; basketball, field hockey, and softball. The girls must participate in at least three in order to earn their letters.

Mrs. Eglinton, the advisor, devotes much time and talent to this organization.

Busy havin' fun—but not too busy to write home.

The A.H.S. band had a full year in '66. Football games and parades were on the usual agenda, and our fine marching band, under the direction of George Appelman, took them all in stride, marching stride. Among the parades were the annual Pickerel Tournament and the Hudson's Thanksgiving Parade. The band performed at the Muskrats' home football games and the audience was entertained by the majorettes' special dance numbers, and the appearance of the precisionettes to perform "Thundercrest." Not only did our band march in Algonac games, but put in a good appearance at the Detroit Lions' game.

Again our band was honored outside of Algonac. They were chosen to represent all the Lions' Clubs in our district at the Lions' International Convention in New York. There was a flurry to earn money for the trip but, finally, after the Pickerel Tournament, they were on their way. They arrived in New York City just in time to prepare for the parade. This year, '67, we will again represent Algonac at the International Lions' Convention in Chicago.

"Long distance to Algonac."

Assistant editors, Sue Bieke, Kathy Kaufman, and Barb Zelenock, join in the hard work of preparing a yearbook.

"Not another deadline!!!"

This year's staff consisted of five senior girls. At the beginning of the year, two were chosen to be co-editors. Two other seniors who also assisted in completing the yearbook were our photographer Joe Jones and Karen Froh. A group of juniors were selected to work along side of this year's staff to learn the mechanics of putting a yearbook together and accustom them to meeting deadlines.

With the help of our advisor, Mr. Skuggen, the staff has tried to make this yearbook one that will be long remembered.

All the excitement of a night in London was brought to life at the annual J-Hop. The theme of "London Town" was effectively carried through by the use of "Mod" artwork.

The results complimented the advisors, Mr. Ford and Mrs. Streit, and all those who worked to make it a success.

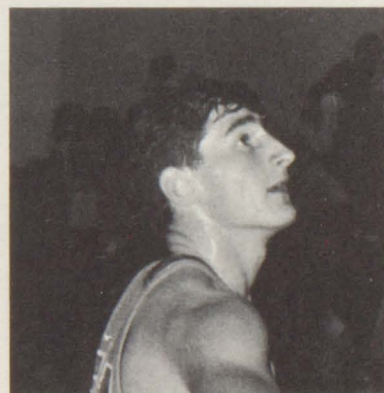

Moments to remember on January 28, 1967.

SPORTS

"Sports is a co-ordinating of actions."

Varsity Football

'66 was a fair football year for the A.H.S. Muskrats. Under the guidance of Richard Garrett, head coach, and John Gremmer, assistant coach, we won five games and lost three which made us fourth in the league. We lost to Marine City, Port Huron Catholic, and Marysville, but put up a good fight. Our top touch-down men were Jeff Johnson (Jr.) and Ray Meldrum (Soph.). The spirit of the team was only matched by the Muskrat fans.

Go Go Go Go

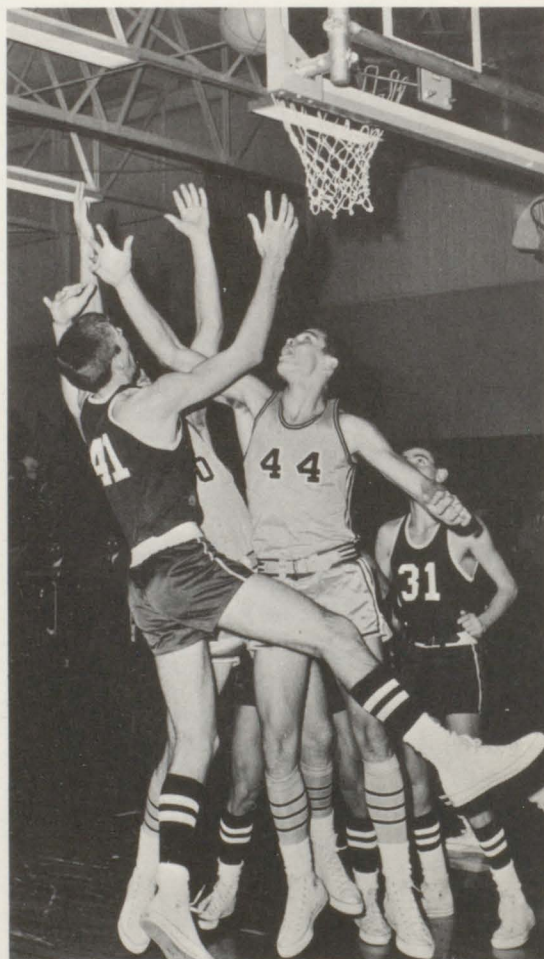

The ball is up for grabs and Les Rockwood is trying for it.

Despite his 6 ft 4 in., Greg Reid manages to get in and out of some tough spots.

The Muskrats were a young and inexperienced ball club. We had only one varsity starter compared to the four or five of other teams. The first two league games were against our hardest opponents, Marysville and St. Clair. The games were whisper close and the tension was high. We lost both games; Marysville by 9 points and St. Clair by 1. The season was played with a great deal of enthusiasm and spirit, and the team was ably supported by the fans. Our top scorers were Greg Reid (Sr.), John Wichman (Jr.), Fred Zelenock (Jr.), Les Rockwood (Sr.), and Buzzy Curtis (Jr.). Top rebound men were Greg Reid, Fred Zelenock, and Les Rockwood. Buzzy Curtis led in assists.

Fred Zelenock keeps the A.H.S. opponents jumping as he reaches for a rebound.

Sometimes even teachers need help.

If the exact science of mathematics is what you yearn for, set your sights on courses taught by Miss Jablinski, Miss Nugent, and Mr. McKnight. The Basic Math courses of Mr. McKnight prepare students for the more advanced courses of Miss Jablinski and Miss Nugent.

Modern Math sometimes needs assistance.

Mr. Pippel is an "A No. 1" biology and physiology teacher. His famous jokes spice his talks on everything from amoebas to organs. Mr. Copp teaches a wide range of subjects: Chemistry, Pre-Tech, Algebra, and Physics, all of which he enjoys and all of which are made more enjoyable by his humor and wit. Mr. Gremmer has a full schedule with his Physical Science and Math I classes. Yet, with all this work, he finds time to be a football coach.

Students interested in developing an understanding of industrial processes come under the guidance of Mr. Potter, Mr. Vanlandegend, and Mr. Musson. Mr. Potter teaches Electronics, Mr. Musson has Woodworking classes, and Mr. Vanlandegend covers the areas of Metals, Hydraulics, and Power Mechanics.

After hours of sitting, all students agree that strenuous exercise is a relief and the Phys. Ed. classes afford that relief. Mrs. Eglinton has developed her girls into excellent field hockey players. Mr. Garrett's paddle is a well-known educational tool to laggards. Consequently, classes are peppy.

A.H.S.'s English department has three more teachers—three more vibrant personalities. Shakespeare's Julius Caesar has never known an Academy Award winning portrayal like Mrs. Streit's for her Communications II classes. Communications I and II classes have never had it so good—or so interesting. Mr. Treppa is a vivid reader and devotes all possible class time in recreating stories for his classes.

If Literature and English are some of your favorites, rely on Mr. Ford, Mr. Skuggen, and Mr. Greenwood. The American Literature, Communications III and Pre-Tech classes of Mr. Ford could tell you a few tales of Mr. Ford's energetic readings; like, "The Cremation of Sam McGee." English Literature class finds that Mr. Skuggen creates a Macbeth like no other, and his Communications III and IV classes decide that precis writing isn't their favorite task. The freshmen in Mr. Greenwood's Communications I classes find that reading is enjoyable and Mr. Greenwood makes and avid Rod Sterling fan.

The Seniors are always the busiest class. This year the seniors presented the play "The Thread That Runs So True." At Port Huron Junior College they attended Government Day, an excursion into the workings of the local, state, and federal governments. In May came the Senior Trip. This year the Seniors went to Mackinac Island. At the beginning of June came, of course, graduation. Much time and preparation went into it by the class advisors, Miss Titsworth and Mr. Potter, and other faculty members.

In the activities department, hard work is always ahead for a junior. The juniors, with their advisors Mrs. Streit and Mr. Ford, must present their J-Hop. This year they used the theme "London Town" as a backdrop for one of the most important dances of the school year. The Juniors, like all other classes, took their turn at handling concessions and after-game dances. At the end of the year the juniors entertained the seniors at the annual Junior-Senior Banquet.

The Sophomores this year were successful in every way. Their J.V. football team finished the season undefeated. The annual Sophomore magazine sale was hugely successful. Under the supervision of their advisors, Mr. Wesolowski and Mr. Greenwood, they managed to add generously to their treasury.

And the results of the magazine sale are

Goofing off on the job.

During their first year the Freshmen have only a few major activities. Aside from having occasional concessions at games and after-game dances, their most important job was becoming acquainted with high-school life. With Mr. Blanc and Mr. Meganck as their advisors, they were helped in reaching that goal.

Just wait 'till we're Seniors!
